

HSBC 1-month Compounded SORA Home Loan

The Singapore Overnight Rate Average ("SORA") is the volume-weighted average rate of borrowing transactions in the unsecured overnight interbank SGD cash markets in Singapore between 8am and 6.15pm. It has been identified as a more suitable and robust interest rate benchmark in Singapore*.

Key Points about SORA

Fairness:

SORA is determined by actual transactions and is underpinned by a deep and liquid overnight interbank funding market

Transparency:

SORA is published on every business day by the Monetary Authority of Singapore ("MAS")

Certainty:

SORA is the selected interest rate benchmark to replace SGD Swap Offer Rate ("SOR") and eventually SGD Singapore Interbank Offered Rate ("SIBOR")

Stability:

Home loans offered by HSBC will be pegged to 1-month Compounded SORA. Compounded SORA provides greater stability than SORA, as it is derived based on SORA values in the past one month.

How does a 1-month Compounded SORA work?

The 1-month Compounded SORA is published by MAS on every business day in Singapore[†]

The 1-month Compounded SORA is computed by compounding the SORA rates published in the past one month

Your interest rate will be pegged to 1-month Compounded SORA published by MAS on the first business day of the calendar month

Your interest rate will reset every month on the Reset Date as defined in your facility letter
